Action seen next week on oil terminal

By RALPH HINMAN JR.

Labor leaders and energy company executives won a prediction Priday from Tom Quinn that a bill "may be sent to the Legislature next week" to cut the environmental agency red tape blocking proposed Alaskan oil terminal at Long Beach

Quinn, State Air Resources Board chairman, denied that his agency has been holding up the Standard Oil of Ohio (Sohio) terminal.

But he confirmed that the Brown administration is now preparing legisla-tion to create a superagency to expedite both the Alaskan oil terminal project and a liquified natural gas (LNG) terminal proposed for the Port of Los Angeles.

Gov. Brown said last week he favored such a superagency, but Quinn on his own has been an outspoken critic of the proposed Alaskan oil terminal in Long Beach. He has said his agency would never approve its construction, charging that the project would seriously add to air quality deterioration in the Los Angeles basin. Observers were interpreting Quinn's statements Friday as an indication that the governor has reined in his former campaign aide on the energy-versus-environment issue.

Quinn helped to chair a day-long hearing in Los Angeles, where aparade of witnesses representing labor, business and environmental interests spoke often bluntly - against excessive red tape and what one man called "the bu-sion with Quinn. The hearing was called to weigh the economic impact of antipollution regulations now in force, and findings and recommendations will be prepared and considered by both boards.

Quinn clashed briefly with a Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce spokesmen, attorney Henry F. Lippitt II, who blamed the Air Resources Board for delaying the proposed Sonio terminal at Long Beach.

"The problem is not with us," Quinn replied. "We want to get it going, but they (the oil company's officials) are dragging their feet." He said ARB has been trying since October to get completed permit applica-tions from the oil company, but "they reaucrats we pay $40,000 so they can strangle us."

Off-street storing

I live near a 21-unit apartment building. The manager of the apartment rents out many of the garages to people who are not tenants in the building. Most of these rental garages are used for storage, not for cars. As a result, the tenants must park their cars in the street, and we end up having to park our car in our front yard. Isn't there a law requiring the manager to allow the tenants to park their cars in the garages? Mrs. S.T., Long Beach.

No. City zoning ordinance requires a certain number of parking spaces to be provided per unit, but does not outline how those spaces must be used, according to a spokesman for the Long Beach Building Department. He said it is common practice to rent the garages out, since tenants often are charged extra for use of the garage, so refuse that option. He said the city's planning department has, in the past, discussed the problem of garages being used for storage rather than parking, but have been unable to come up with enforceable regulations.

We assumed the word "weekdays" meant Friday also, but when we talked to the manager she said there was nothing she could do. Would you look into this? B.D., Long Beach.

There was an error made in the ad you saw and subsequent ads have clarified the theaters' policy saying admissions are $1.25 until 2 p.m. weekends and until 7 p.m. Monday through Thursday. Beach Arena rock concert, will be tried as a juvenile because of a change in testimony by one of the witnesses at his fitness hearing.

Long Beach Juvenile Court Referce Robert Fletcher ruled at the con-clusion of the two-day hearing Friday afternoon that the defendant should be tried as a juvenile.

Fletcher said the primary reason for his decision was a clarification made by Dep. Dist. Atty. Robert Levy and defense attorney Ted Veganes of the testimony given Thursday by one of the prosecution witnesses.

Joe Yukech, who was working as a security guard at the Long Beach Arena Jan. 2 when his coworker, 17-year-old Brian Graves of Buena Park. was stabbed to death, told the attorneys he made a mistake while on the witness stand.

Yukech testified Thursday that the defendant had said, "I'm going to kill you," as he was stabbing

Graves in the back.
On Friday, Levy and Veganes told Fletcher that Yukech had misunderstood the question. The de-

Thousands boycott classes over busing

About 24,000 Harbor Area youngsters stayed out of their Los Angeles Unified School District classrooms Friday during a boycott to protest proposed busing for integration in the 600,000-student district.

The district-wide boycott, however, showed its greatest strength in the predominantly white and generally affluent west San Fernando Valley, where officials reported that about 27,000 youngsters, or 53 per cent of the area's 51,136 students, failed to attend classes.

The second highest absentee rate was recorded in the central San Fernando Valley communities of Encino, Reseda, Van Nuys and Panorama City. In that area, where enrollment is also predominantly white, about 14,000, or 35 per cent, of the 72,000 students stayed home.

white, 3,600-student Granada Hills High School reported about 50 per cent of the students absent, while only about 20 per cent of the students stayed home from other north valley schools.

Residents of the various valley com-munities have been among the district's most vocal opponents to the busing plan.

The Harbor Area, which includes San Pedro and Wilmington, has an enrollment that already is about equally divided be-tween white and minority students.

Despite the high absentee figures in some areas of the city, officials cautioned that there was no way of knowing whether the students were protesting or simply figured it was a good day to play hooky and head for the warm and sunny beaches. No unusual absences were reported in the largely black south-central Watts sec-tion or in the largely Mexican-American eastern part of the city.

School officials said absences generally ran about 10 per cent on any Friday and would naturally be higher just before a three-day weekend.

There were no reports of trouble. The organizers of the boycott have managed to remain unidentified, and Los Angeles Police Chief Ed Davis has promised to seek criminal conspiracy complaints if the boycott leaders can be identified

The boycott was publicized by leaf-lets. One read: "If you are opposed to forced busing - join us. Keep your children out of school."

Busing is one of the alternatives being considered by the Los Angeles school board, under court order to desegregate the district's 600 schools. The board plans to submit an integration plan to the Superior Court by March 7.

According to preliminary plans, about 50,000 students in some 175 or the district's 435 elementary schools will participate in a mandatory integration program beginning next September

The program, which involves busing fourth, fifth and sixth graders to schools throughout the district, could involve travel time as long as 50 minutes one

Off-street storing

I live near a 21-unit apartment building. The manager of the apartment rents out many of the garages to people who are not tenants in the building. Most of these rental garages are used for storage, not for cars. As a result, the tenants must park their cars in the street, and we end up having to park our car in our front yard. Isn't there a law requiring the manager to allow the tenants to park their cars in the garages? Mrs. S.T., Long Beach.

No. City zoning ordinance requires a certain number of parking spaces to be provided per unit, but does not outline how those spaces must be used, according to a spokesman for the Long Beach Building Department. He said it is common practice to rent the garages out, since tenants often are charged extra for use of the garage, so refuse that option. He said the city's planning department has, in the past, discussed the problem of garages being used for storage rather than parking, but have been unable to come up with enforceable regula-

Bad ad

Two friends and I went to see two films at the new Market Place theaters Friday evening, Jan. 28. We got there at 6:45 for the 7:45 showing because the theaters' ad stated that admission is $1.25 until 7 p.m. on week-days. We were charged $2.50 and told the $1.25 price applies Monday through Thursday only. We assumed the word "weekdays" meant Friday also, but when we talked to the manager she said there was nothing she could de. Would you look into this? B.D., Long Beach.

There was an error made in the ad you saw and subsequent ads have clarified the theaters' policy saying admissions are $1.25 until 2 p.m. weekends and until 7 p.m. Monday through Thursday. Marsha Naify, manager of the Market Place theaters, told Action Line she tried to explain the error to moviegoers that Friday

Donny's show

I am II and my sister is 9 and we would like to know hew we can get tickets to see the "Donny and Marie Show." We heard you have to be 16 or over to get in. Is this true? If it is, we think it is very unfair because we buy their records and watch them on TV every week and should have the right to see them in person like anyone else. B.W., Long Beach.

The company that produces the Osmonds' show bars persons under 16 from the studio audience because it is afraid they might be noisy and disrupt the tapings, according to a spokesman for ABC network shows at KABC, Channel 7. However, no one, regardless of age, can get tickets now. There is about a three-year backlog of ticket requests and none will be accepted for about a year, the spokesman said. Ticket information for other shows on the three major networks can be obtained by writing ABC, 4151 Prospect Ave., Los Angeles, Calif. 90027; CBS, 7800 Beverly Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif. 90036; and NBC, 3000 W. Alameda Ave., Burbank, Calif.

A 16-year-old La Puente boy, charged with murder in the stabbing death of a security guard at a Long Beach Arena rock concert, will be tried as a juvenile because of a change in testimony by one of the witnesses at his fitness hearing.

Long Beach Juvenile Court Referee Robert Fletcher ruled at the conclusion of the two-day hearing Friday afternoon that the defendant should be tried as a juvenile.

Fletcher said the primary reason for his decision was a clarification made by Dep. Dist. Atty. Robert Levy and defense attorney Ted Veganes of the testimony given Thurs-day by one of the prosecution witnesses.

Joe Yukech, who was working as a security guard at the Long Beach Arena Jan. 2 when his coworker, 17-year-old Brian Graves of Buena Park, was stabbed to death, told the attorneys he made a mistake while on the witness stand. Yukech testified Thursday that the defendant had said, "I'm going to kill you," as he was stabbing Graves in the back.

Thousands boycott classes over busin

About 24,000 Harbor Area youngsters stayed out of their Los Angeles Unified School District classrooms Friday during a boycott to protest proposed busing for integration in the 600,000-student district.

The district-wide boycott, however, showed its greatest strength in the predominantly white and generally affluent west San Fernando Valley, where offi-cials reported that about 27,000 youngsters, or 53 per cent of the area's 51,136 students, failed to attend classes.

The second highest absentee rate was recorded in the central San Fernando Valley communities of Encino, Reseda, Van Nuys and Panorama City. In that area, where enrollment is also predominantly white, about 14,000, or 35 per cent, of the 72,000 students stayed home.

Officials at the overwhelmingly white, 3,600-student Granada Hills High School reported about 50 per cent of the students absent, while only about 20 per cent of the students stayed home from other north valley schools.

Residents of the various valley communities have been among the district's most vocal opponents to the busing plan.

The Harbor Area, which includes San Pedro and Wilmington, has an enrollment that already is about equally divided between white and minority students.

Despite the high absentee figures in some areas of the city, officials cautioned that there was no way of knowing whether the students were protesting or simply figured it was a good day to play hooky and head for the warm and sunny.

No unusual absences were reported in the largely black south-central Watts section or in the largely Mexican-American eastern part of the city.

School officials said absences generally ran about 10 per cent on any Friday and would naturally be higher just before three-day weekend. There were no reports of trouble.

The organizers of the boycott have managed to remain unidentified, and Los Angeles Police Chief Ed Davis has promised to seek criminal conspiracy complaints if the boycott leaders can be identified.

The boycott was publicized by leaf-lets. One read: "If you are opposed to forced busing — join us. Keep your children out of school."

Busing is one of the alternatives being considered by the Los Angeles school board, under court order to deseg-regate the district's 600 schools. The board plans to submit an integration plan to the Superior Court by March 7.

According to preliminary plans about 50,000 students in some 175 of the district's 435 elementary schools will participate in a mandatory integration program beginning next September.

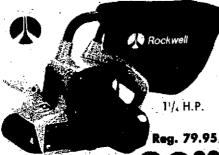

The program, which involves busing fourth, fifth and sixth graders to schools throughout the district, could involve travel time as long as 50 minutes one

- SAN FRANCISCO (AP)

— Every other day, just before bedtime, 11-year-old Richard Molina and his brother, Raymond, 16, stick a hypodermic needle into their arms and give themselves injections that make their blood clot.

For a growing number of youngsters, the drug the Molina brothers use is helping them cope with a life-threatening disability that affects about 25,000 American children—uncontrolled bleeding.

THE BROTHERS are hemophiliacs and the drug they are using is called Factor VIII. a relatively new substance that causes their blood to coagulate and combats an illness they have suffered since infancy.

The brothers will probably have to inject themselves regularly for the rest of their lives, but it means they can grow up normally and it could save them from a painful death. Just 12 years ago, the outlook for such children was grim.

Oil and gas may put Mexico in ranks of wealthiest nations

MEXICO CITY (AP) -Mexico's potential oil and gas reserves may make this nation the third richest in the West and the government has hired an American firm to find out how much oil Mexico has.

Sources say Petroleos Mexicanos (PEMEX), the government oil monopoly, may be sitting on as many as 42 billion barrels of crude oil and perhaps 18 billion barrels of natural and liquid gas. A PEMEX spokesman refused to confirm the reports.

The U.S. firm of De Gotyer and MacNaughton of Dallas has been contracted by the Mexican government to certify Mexico's total oil reserves, the PEMEX

PEMEX plans to produce 2.2 million barrels a day by 1982 and export close to a million a day. At current prices, those exports will be worth $4.5 billion a year for the crude exports alone.

It was learned that U.S. companies have approached PEMEX with propositions for drilling programs and are proposing the type of rigs to be used in drilling for oil.

Some of the estimated oil reserve is offshore. It costs from $60 million to $100 million for one offshore rig, a source said, and this is about seven times the cost of an inland rig. The reason for this high cost is that the wells are so deep.

Mexico has not produced and exported more of its oil in the past be-cause PEMEX policy was apparently to produce only for domestic consumption and pay for imported equipment, according to the sources.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration disclosed Friday it plans to overhaul the government's main program for battling urban blight by channeling more money into the poorest and neediest cities.

Officials of the Department of Housing and Urban Development also said the administration is proposing to expand the program by spending $4 billion in the fiscal year beginning next October, compared to $3.2 billion in the current fiscal year. Former President Ford had proposed spending $3.5 billion in the next fiscal year.

KNOWN AS the Community Development Program, the program provides money to more than 2,500 cities, suburbs and rural towns and about 100 counties.

HUD officials said the administration also favors extending the program, which began in 1974, for three more years. Funding would be $4.2 billion for the fiscal year that begins Oct. 1, 1978, and $4.5 billion for the following year.

These proposals are expected to be made public next week when Carter announces his amendments

One source familiar with Carter's urban proposal said be expects it will get a warm reception from big city mayors, par-ticularly those from cities in financial distress. He added that some smaller towns are likely to be a little less enthusiastic and

The program is the principal fund-ing mechanism in HUD for urban development, merging such former pro-grams as Model Cities and urban renewal used by previous administrations.

HUD Secretary Patricia Harris is scheduled to testify on the program be-fore a House subcommittee next week.

Riedy, who said the plan was "a major new initiative," also remarked that Mrs. Harris was "ap-palled, to say the least" that regional HUD offices haven't done more to get help to the needy.

Carter routinely withdraws Ford last-hour picks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter on Friday withdrew the nomination of career diplomat Malcolm Toon to be ambassador to the Soviet Union — a post Toon now occupies under a temporary appointment.

The State Department insisted the President's pullback of the nomination was in no way linked with the substance of American-Soviet relations

"This is a routine action taken by every new administration to permit the new President to review the appointments of his predecessor," a department spokesman said. "This is a government-wide pullback of presidential nominations."

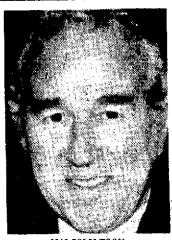

The action came as one of a lengthy list of withdrawals of nominations made by President Ford during his final three weeks in office.

Jerald Schecter, national security spokesman at the White House, said Toon "may or may not be renominated." He noted that Carter has created a special board to advise him on ambassadorial appointments.

When Ford first proposed Toon for the Moscow post, the Soviets delayed agreeing to his choice until after the presidential election. By the time Toon was proclaimed acceptable to the Kremlin, Congress had recessed for the year so he was disputched under a recess appointment.

nomination to the Senate on Jan. 6.

The Soviet Union reportedly was cool to Ford's nominee on grounds that Toon was a Cold War hard-liner.

Also withdrawn was the controversial nomination of Jack B. Olson to be ambassador to the Bahamas, which also was also submitted by Ford on Jan. 6.

Among a total of 48 nominees whose names were withdrawn was that of another ambassador — Donald R. Norland — who was appointed envoy to Botswana, Lesotho and Swaziland.

Carter also withdrew the nominations of Patrick J. Delaney to be a member of the Securities and Exchange Commission and Thaddeus A. Garrett Jr. to be a commissioner of the Consumer Product Safety Commission.

More funds for youth crime prevention seen

RACINE. Wis. (AP) — The Carter administration is expected to give high priority to increased funding of a $75-million juvenile crime prevention bill which the Ford administration tried to kill, a spokesman for the Senate panel drafting the measure says.

John Rector, chief counsel of the subcommittee to investigate juvenile delinquency, said the bill has the endorsement of top administration officials, including Atty, Gen. Griffin Bell.

RECTOR said the bill would seck authorization for an increase in the $75 million approved for this year, which is largely allotted to states in block grants. He did not indicate how large an increase is involved.

Rector appeared at a three-day conference on delinquency prevention that adjourned Friday.

Ford nearly vetoed the bill. He later recommended that no money be appropriated for it, but was overridden by the Congress.

"Pord wanted to cut the Jederal budget, and kids are a low priority," said Rosemary Sarri, co-director of the National Assessment of Juvenile Corrections at the University of Michigan. Ms. Sarri said the bill has wide support from those who work in the field of crime prevention, despite wrangling over whether the program should be housed in the Justice Department or in the Department of Health. Rector said the program probably would remain in the Justice Department, although HEW would continue administering a project for runaway youths.

"HEW IS THE right environment because it deals in social services, but the Justice Department is a more efficient administrator." said Joseph White of the Academy for Contemporary Problems in Columbus, Ohio.

Among other regulations, the bill required states accepting federal aid to remove from incarceration juveniles convicted of acts like truancy, running away from home and breaking curfew.

Rector said some regulations probably would be relaxed and, with the anticipated additional funding, more states would be expected to join. Currently about two-thirds of the states take part in the program.

GM faces taxes probe

By WILLIAM HART Knight News Service

DETROIT — General Motors Corp., the world's largest industrial firm, is being investigated by the federal government for criminal tax fraud.

An investigation begun months ago by the Internal Revenue Service produced sufficient evidence for the IRS to involve the Justice Department, which is now directing the inquire.

inquiry.

A GM spokesman acknowledged that the corporation has been officially notified that it is under investigation.

"We believe that when the investigation is completed, the government will conclude that General Motors has not done anything improper," the spokesman said.

Both GM and government spokesmen refused to disclose details of the investigation and would not say exactly what activity the government was examining.

Sources close to the investigation said a substantial amount of tax money was involved and said it was possible that individuals as well as the company might be liable to prosecution.

Criminal tax fraud prosecutions involving major businesses are unusual since prosecutors must prove that the business involved deliberately attempted to cheat the government.

Most tax cases involving corporations are civil matters, in which the government must show only that the business failed to comply with tax laws.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter announced Friday he will nominate Colorado State Treasurer Samuel W. "Sam" Brown Jr., who came to public prominence as an antiwar activist, to be director of ACTION, the volunteer service agency.

ACTION includes the Peace Corps and Volunteers in Service to America (VISTA.)

Brown, 33, was reluctant to take the job because it would mean quitting his state job before completion of his term, said White House Press Secretary Jody Powell. But Powell said Brown finally agreed after "a very strong presidential request."

Brown was a Peace Corps consultant in India and Nepal in 1968, then founded, coordinated and led the Vietnam moratorium in Washington, D.C., the next year.

Carter's Africa policy could draw U.S. into a powder keg

By JAMES McCARTNEY Knight News Service

WASHINGTON - President Carter has begun to build a new policy toward Africa that will almost inevitably plunge the U.S. more deeply into the poli-tics of that war torn continent, one of the world's major powder kegs.

As outlined by top U.S. officials, the major ele-ments of the new African policy so far include plans for:

-Stronger, more out-spoken U.S. support of black African nationalism and the principle of black majority rule throughout

-Deeper U.S. involvement in attempts to find a peace settlement in Rhodesia, now teetering on the brink of a major

Carter says three enough By FRANK VAN RIPER Kulght News Service

WASHINGTON - President Carter has ordered the Air Force not to buy any more of the huge Boeing 747 Airborne Command Post — or "Dooms-day" — planes because he does not see any need to have more than the three already in service, the New York News learned Friday.

Carter expressed his view — "stated in terms of a directive," according to an informed source — to Defense Secretary Har-

AT THE TIME, a platoon of anxious military brass took Carter through mammoth, multimillion-dollarair craft, showing it off and apparently leaving the President very impressed and "sobered" by its sophisticated communicalions gear — not im-pressed enough, however, to spring for three more planes.

The main purpose of the $117.2 million aircraft is to get the President and the nation's top military leaders airborne as quickly as possible in the event of a nuclear attack on Wash-ington. From the plane's specially shielded cocoon, the President would direct the nation's defenses in the first stages of an allout nuclear war.

THE PENTAGON now must respond to Carter's order - and it doesn't know what to say. One source said that Carter's view was "stated in terms of a directive, but I don't think it was stated cate-gorically." At least that's what the Air Force hopes since it contends that it needs at least four of the big jets in order to provide Carter a quick getaway and also to fulfill its sec ond mission: to maintain at least one plane in the air continuously to take over for ground command stations should they be de-stroyed or rendered unable to communicate.

Since 1961, the Air Force has kept such a "looking glass" plane in the air tactually three planes flying 8 hours apiece in rotation). Originally these planes were nally, these planes were 707s, but the Air Force had hoped to upgrade them to the more sophisticated — and more expensive — 747s. Now that plan is in doubt.

One Pentagon source wondered whether Carter was aware of the dual mission of the command

Since the beginning of the 747 program, the project has been plagued by high costs. A House Armed Services Committee report, released Friday, noted that "the program originally provided for procurement of seven aircraft (but) that number has been reduced to six because of the dramatic increase in the cost of the program."

Despite the cost overruns, the report, prepared for the armed services investigation subcommit-tee, praised the concept of a flying command post since it contended, "Most (ground) military command centers and their communications networks would not survive a nuclear attack directed against them."

Shortly after the Miller letter was handed to Edelman Friday morning, the supervisor called a Edelman noted that Watson, in deciding to reverse his decision, "apparently still does not agree that his original action (to freeze all assessments in the county) created this basic unfairness."

The statements led reporters to ask whether Edelman might be seeking Watson's resignation. "The seeking Watson's resignation. "The voters have to make that decision," he replied.

While they agreed with Gov Brown that people should somehow use less water. Southern California officials warned Friday that his targeted 25 per cent cutback could put those people out of work

Brown, at the invitation of Mayor Tom Bradley, met for an hour in the Los Angeles City Hall with representatives of city, state and regional agencies and water districts that supply water to the southern part of the state. The governor said he wanted to "solicit the advice and counsel from those water people directly involved before deciding on a statewide plan to combat the drought that has parched Northern California. He would not say when he would decide.

"WHEN THE WATER plan was developed, Southern California referred to 'California water,' viewing the state as one political entity," Brown said. "Now that the North is cutting back . . incumbent upon people, wherever they live, to help."

He asked for - and got - opinions from the water officials on a tentative 25 per cent cutback. He also said be must decide if it should Jack Beaver of the San Bernar-ding Valley Municipal Water District said his system has cut back 29 per cent on its water from the state, but it will continue to need some water.

"There are a few kissin' cousins out there in the country that have no other sources – you can't shut off the istatet pumps completely," he said.

1 million back on job as gas shortages ease

WASHINGTON (AP) - Unemployment caused by natural gas shortages has shrunk to an esti-mated 242,500 after a break in the coldest winter in the nation's history, the Federal Energy Administration reported Friday.

The FEA said the latest figures collected by the Commerce Department indicated that shortagecaused unemployment has virtually ended in Maryland, Michigan and Wisconsin, and has improved substantially in most other states.

The recent moderation of temperatures has eased gas shortages and allowed some one million laidoff workers to go back to their jobs. Meanwhile, Interior Secretary

Cecil D. Andrus, who ordered a probe Thursday of offshore gas operations in the Gull of Mexico. announced Friday a postponement of steps for new petroleum leasing off the Pacific Coast.

The postponement came on the heels of Andrus' cancellation of pe-troleum leasing in Alaska's Cook Inlet and a federal judge's invalida-tion of leases sold off the Atlantie

Those events prompted Louisiana's Gov. Edwin Edwards to threaten to cut back his state's production of natural gas - about one-third of the nation's supply -until new offshore areas elsewhere are opened for development.

Andrus said he was delaying the opening call for nominations of areas for petroleum leasing off Washington, Oregon and northern California "to allow a better definition of the area where the call should be held."

Originally some 60 million acres had been proposed for possible leasing. A call for nominations was earlier scheduled for last month, a target that was missed. and a lease sale was tentatively scheduled for late 1978, a deadline that presumably will be delayed by Andrus' action.

In other energy developments, the FEA said the National Weather Service reports that this winter has been the coldest in the eastern two-thirds of the nation "since the founding of the Republic."

Ailing County Assessor Phil Watson Friday evening notified supervisors through his lawyer that "neither authorized nor ratified" a letter agreeing to add 170,-000 reappraised homes to the tax

Watson also disclosed he is scheduled to undergo open-heart surgery Monday for either a double or triple bypass operation.

Watson's repudiation came in the form of a letter written by Douglas Dalton and hand-delivered to Supervisor Ed Edelman's office shortly after 5 p.m.

Dalton said, Watson had directed him, as his counsel, to advise that the letter dealing with the 170,000 homes had not been authorized or ratified by the assessor.

Assistant Assessor Gerald Miller told Edelman Thursday that Watson had agreed to place the reassessments on the tax roll. Miller followed that up early Friday with a letter bearing his and Watson's names, but signed only by himself.

A source close to Watson, who is in St. Francis Hospital in Lynwood, said the assessor held discussions with Dalton and an unidentified aide Thursday over the question of Watson's announced freeze on the assessment of residential properties.

The source said the discussions centered on "finding a middle ground between the lawsuit (against Watson) ordered by supervisors and the freeze" and that Watson believes the discussions were "misinterpreted."

Dalton's letter, however, left no doubt about Watson's intentions.

The letter went on to say a "tentative determination" has been made by Watson's doctors to perform the open-heart surgery on Monday. It said the surgery decision was subject to a final review of an angiogram procedure, which Whatever its conception, Los Altos today is like a small town, according to Dick and Phyllis Poper, longtime residents.

A man borrows a lawn edger from his next door neighbor. His wife meets a former PTA member at the shopping center and they chat about the children and, yes, now it's also the grandchildren.

It's true the taxes have doubled, but there's no way they're going to move.

No way, even though, in some families, two of the children need financial help to get through college and the added taxes mean both parents have to work.

Like the Popers, 10 of 73 'My Town" respondents identified themselves as longtime residents.

Also like the Popers, most of 73 were proud of their comby living communally.

The young and the old have more in common with each other than with the generation in be-tween, Gray Panther Maggie Kuhn told 100 persons Friday at the Long Beach State University speakers platform.

About half her audience were students and half elderly persons -Ms. Kuhn prefers the more realis-tic term "old people" — who came to the campus to hear her.

"Both the young and the old are more free to try out new lifestyles, new ways of bringing about social change and new ways of govern-ment," the 72-year-old Ms. Kuhn

She is founder of the Gray Panthers, a national organization that is probably the most militant among groups lighting for oldsters' rights. The group has attracted 30,000 members since it was founded seven years ago.

"Both groups have more oppor-tunity to raise hell," she said. "We are the most free to rock boats. No boss can fire us if he doesn't like what we say. Widows don't even have to be bossed by their husbands anymore."

Ms. Kuhn encouraged the young and the old to get together to "remind the harsh and competitive society that we live in that it has lost its humanity." She urged her listeners to join cooperative organizations to work for reform in the health care system — which she termed the "sick care system" — and nursing homes where oldsters lose control of their

Press' view of Carter aired

Johnson once warned:

"Anytime someone tries that 'I'm-just-a-country-boy' routine, reach for your wallet to make sure it's still there.

That's one reason the press is being cautious in believing President Carter's apparent sincerity, a veteran reporter told a student audience Friday at Long Beich

State University.
Helen Thomas, prize-winning United Press International correspondent, who has been reporting on presidents since 1943, said the Washington press corps has a waitand-see attitude about Carter after

"it's difficult to get a fix on him," she said. "How he acts in a crisis will be what counts."

On one hand, she said, Carter appears to be more available to the press in terms of holding confer-ences and ambling through Plains, Ga., with a dozen reporters following.

On the other hand, the White House staff hasn't always been honest with the press about Carter's whereabouts, she said.

Miss Thomas lauded Carter's recent supportive letter to Soviet dissident Andrei Sakharov as "a return to this country's image of being the beacon light of liberty."

She said that Carter is trying to speak out in favor of human rights in the Soviet Union while not destroying the basis for detente between the USSR and the United play down human rights in defense of detente," she said.

Miss Thomas said there's not much room in the Carter White House for anyone who doesn't come from below the Mason-Dixon Line. Staff members around Carter are largely young Southerners in their early 30s "who are true believers," she said.

She quoted one reporter as comparing the Carter staff to for-mer Presidents Nixon and Ford's staffs with these words: "They still lie, but at least they return your phone calls.

Disabled attorney awarded $403,200

Attorney Julius Austero, who was disabled by a rare brain disease and who previously won a judgment of $5.3 million against an insurance company which refused to make support payments, won a $403,200 judgment Friday from another company.

A jury in Santa Ana Superior Court Judge Kenneth Lae's court made the decision after three days of deliberation.

It came just one month after another judge, Robert A. Banyard, set aside the record $5.3 million judgment and ruled it should in stead be $253,811. Banyard's decision to reduce the first jury's generous award to Austero against the Washington National Insurance Company is under appeal.

Austero's award Friday was against the National Casualty Company of Detroit. Both firms were accused of failing to make proper support payments to Austero during his illness.

A rags-to-riches, hair-of-the-dog tale

Life started wrong for Scruffy. His parentage was clouded, even mysterious.

"Probably poodle and cocker spaniel, mixed."

Wherever he started from, he was headed nowhere one day two years ago when, as a mere pup, he tried to cross Rosecrans Avenue. Out in the middle he crouched, Elizabeth Ross, returning home with one of her daughters, saw the pup and rescued him. She and her husband, Richard, and their family named Scruffy, fed him, spoke to him kindly and petted him.

He was loved - a brand new experience for Scruffy.

So, two years pass. Now it is a day or two ago, and Scruffy, the distinguished customer, visits a distinguished dog-grooming palace, La Parisienne, at 17905 Bellflower Blvd, in Bellflower, where he is well known.

Who gets to trim his gentle-manly whiskers and eyebrows?

La Parisienne's top groomer, Flo Thomas, who snipped and clipped and patted and powdered Scruffy, who may or may not know he's only a mutt and plainly doesn't "Shows what love will do," commented the groomer, scissoring Scruffy's noble eyebrows.

No one is sure how the community of Los Altos was named. Liberal translation from the Spanish could have it meaning the

There are, however, no hills or mountains in the East Long Beach community. If some of the trees are tall now, they were saplings when the area was first subdivided

The audience may be new, but the routine isn't. Youngman still lumbers onto the stage like a waiter at Katz' Delicatèssan, the ever-present fid-dle ("My Stradivaricose") at his side as he delivers a fusillade of quickies about mothers in law, brothersin-law, doctors, wives, husbands, and persons of various ethnic persua-

Youngman started in New York vaudeville after a brief career as a prize-fighter and got his first big break as comic on the Kate Smith television show. He credits appearances on television's now-'defunct "Laugh-In" and in popularity. He has no idea how many thousands of jokes he's told over the years. If he likes one, he automatically remembers it, and one triggers another as he does his 45-minute routine 200 nights a year.

Mel Brooks' "Silent Movie" with helping the current renaissance in his

"I take work from anyone," he says. "I worked in a place that was so tough the hatcheck girl's name was Dominic. The owner used to stab me good night. He simply can't stop telling jokes. Once, after a thief broke into a vault at the Miami hotel where Youngman lives with his wife, a reporter was sent to interview him about the loss of their valuables.

"When they opened my box," he told the reporter, 'a moth flew out. On crutches. I was walking through the hotel lobby once and this guy put his hand in my pocket. He said he needed a match. I said why didn't you ask me? He said he never talked to strangers."

This is "an age of me-diocrity" in the field of comedy, Youngman has decided. The new comics don't make him laugh. He likes older joke tellers like Milton Berle, Bob Hope, Buddy Hackett, Shecky Green and Jackie Gleason - "He uses five per cent of his talent."

Youngman says he's feeling fine and has no doubtful" they'll win their casé in court. Superior Judge Vincent S. Dalsimer, in dissolving a temporary restraining order and refusing to grant a preliminary injunction against the city, said Thursday that Lake wood's policy of shutting off water service for non-payment of trash bills was 'legal, constitutional and reasonable." But even if the Gentrys, of 6113 Greenmeadow Road; are losing their legal battle, they may score a victory on the local level when the City Council reconsiders the controversial billing policy

Gentry, a former trash company employe who disposes of household refuse himself, has refused to pay for trash collection on grounds that he doesn't use and hasn't asked for the service.

He said he has, however, faithfully paid the water-use portion of his bi-monthly bill for trash and

In addition, the attorney general's office has announced plans to review a State Health Department study of deaths at the other 10 state mental hospitals.

The announcement was made to the state's watchdog Little Hoover Commission, which called last month for an investigation by Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger's office.

Public grand jury hearings called by the Ventura County district attorney into deaths at Camarillo have resulted in charges against four hospital employes.

The State Health Department has been reviewing 1,200 deaths in the last three years at the other 10 hospitals, but has deferred a study Camarillo while the local investigation continues.

In addition, Speck said, attorney general's investigators will "conduct independent and in-depth investigations should Jay questions arise" during its review of the Health Department study of the deaths at other hospitals.

He said Health Department nurses and Consumer Affairs Department investigators will assist the attorney general's study.

Wenger said the six city, county and federal law enforcement agencies involved in the Thai-stick raid had failed to cooper-ate with each other, mishandled evidence, lost witnesses, failed to keep up-to-date records and had generally "dropped the ball."

Stanton youth, 18, denies 4 Orange County slayings

on liefall of the courts or this particular judge.

Judge Robert Rickles ordered $1-million bail for Brett Matthew Paul

Thomas, and said he will decide a preliminary hearing date on March 4.

By then, the court said, there may be a decision about how to try Mark Wayne Titch, 17, of Ana-heim, facing the same charges.

As a juvenile, Titch is technically within the jurisdiction of Superior Court's Juvenile Division. but Deputy Dist. Atty. Brian Brown has demanded that Titch be tried as an adult.

Both are accused of the Jan. 21 slaying of Long Beach City College student Laura Anne Stoughton, 20, of Garden Grove They are also charged with the death of Ephraim Christian, 34, of Garden Grove, who was killed Jan. 24 during a robbery of a Garden Grove dairy store where he worked; the Jan. 29 ambush shooting of 48-year-old Aubrey Lee Duncan, as he arrived at his home, 925 S. Velare

St., Anaheim, with receipts from his billiard parlor; the killing of his daughter Denise Marie, 18, and the wounding of his wife, Nadine, 44, as they investigated the gun-shot outside their home.

Both Thomas and Titch were arrested in company of William Frank Haupu. 19, also of Stanton, as they thumbed a ride from their disabled car left alongside desert road outside of Victorville.

A California Highway patrolman spotted them, picked them up, and then checked their ear, finding weapons, blood and human hair.

The CHP patrolman had recognized the car as one reported stolen.

Haupu was surrendered to San Diego police who charged him with slaying a police officer there.

He was not charged with the Orange County crime spree.

Sansinena scrap

The bow of the 810-foot Liberian-registered tanker Sansinena, which blew apart at its berth in Los Angeles Harbor Dec. 17, rests awkwardly at National Metal and Steel Co. dock Friday after it was towed there to be scrapped. The towing process was halted just short of the destination when the tide went out, leaving the 1,200 ton bow temporarily stuck.

In addition, the attorney general's office has announced plans to review a State Health Department study of deaths at the other 10 state mental hospitals.

The announcement was made to the state's watchdog Little Hoover Commission, which called last month for an investigation by Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger's office.

Public grand jury hearings called by the Ventura County dis-

The State Health Department has been reviewing 1,200 deaths in the last three years at the other 10 hospitals, but has deferred a study at Camarillo while the local investigation continues.

U.S. Catholics facing trouble

By WILLIAM F. WILLOUGHBY Weshington Star.

WASHINGTON — The American Catholic Church is in serious trouble unless a large number of its parishes learn how to meet more adequately the deep-down spiritual needs of their people and unless something is done to cope with a soon-to-come shortage of priests.

Archbishop Jean Jadot, apostolic delegate to the Roman Catholic Church in the United States, gave this unusually pointed warning to the American Catholic bishops Tuesday at their annual conference. He chided leaders of the church who do not seem to be concerned about the problems.

He also said Americans cannot continue to overlook effective pastoral care for ethnic and racial minorities. Many priests even show an arrogance toward such people, he said.

It is the first time since he became the Vatican's delegate to the American church that he has spoken quite so forcefully, prompting feelings that some major changes may soon be forthcoming in American Catholic church life.
"I am worried that so many of us - laity, clergy and bishops — do not seem to be concerned that, if not today, then in a very few years, we will not be able to staff our parishes and institutions with priests as we did in the past," he said. Jadot said that already

Meet Your Fears Boldly

When my wife and I were married, a friend in Syracuse, New York where I then lived, offered us his cabin in the north woods for a honeymoon. We certainly appreciated this kindness, for we had very little money for our honeymoon. We drove up there right after the wedding. On the way we stopped in Utica and bought a newspaper. In it was a big black headtine telling of the escape of an insane murderer from the State Hospital. It stated he had been reported at large in the area toward which we were headed.

I said nervously to my ride, "Maybe this isn't the place for us to go on our honeymoon.

Why, you aren't afraid, are you?" she asked, surprised. She had read my writings and listened to my speeches on the overcoming of fear, and now that she had married me I had to show her that I could practice what I preached. "We'll go right on up there." I insisted stoutly, but not without some inward perturbation.

So we drove on and got there after dark, and if you've ever been in the woods, you know how dark

Our host had said there was a key under the mat; we found it and opened the cottage. I built a fire and Ruth made dinner. My fire was not nearly as good as her dinner. After a deli-cious meal we sat in the living room before the fire.

"This place has more creaks and noises in it than I ever heard before. remarked apprehensively. Just then I heard on the front porch what seunded like a step. I looked out the window and thought I could see a face in the darkness. "You don't suppose that murderer could be around here, do you?"

"I'm sure not," Ruth said. "Let's just sit here and enjoy this cheery fire."

But the chills were coing up and down my back. And I had to prove to my bride that I wasn't a coward, so I said, "Whatever it is on the porch, I'm going to find " I walked to the door, acting bravely, but trem-bling in my shoes, and flung it open. And what do you think? There sat a tiny chipmunk looking at me from his beady little

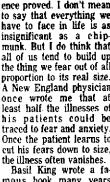

I said to Ruth, relieved but disgusted, "Nothing but a chipmunk," and I could see the love light in her eyes. She knew she'd married a courageous baseless as this experience proved. I don't mean to say that everything we have to face in life is as insignificant as a chip-munk. But I do think that all of us tend to build up the thing we fear out of all proportion to its real size. A New England physician once wrote me that at least half the illnesses of his patients could be traced to fear and anxiety. Once the patient learns to cut his fears down to size,

This taught me a needed lesson that our fears are often just as

Basil King wrote a famous book many years ago. It was simply "Fear" and it teaches the pro-found principle that if you act boldly, "mighty powers will come to your When I opened that door in that cabin in the woods. I was acting boldly. If the insane man had been standing there, I am sure I would have found a way to cope with the situation, because the very act of boldness calls up from within us the great forces we need to

But the basic antidote to but the basic antidote to fear is a deep conscious-ness of the presence of God. "I will fear no evil," the Bible says, "for Thou art with me." Get this truth deeply fixed in your subconscious mind, then baddly stand yn to your boldly stand up to your fears You will find they are not as formidable as

'Speak, Lord,' is rally theme

NEW ORLEANS (AP) -About 40,000 Catholic students are expected to attend a massive youth rally sponsored by the Roman atholic archdiocese of New Orleans at the Louisiana Superdome Sunday, March 6.

Archbishop Philip Han-Archotshop ruling frate-nan said the rally on the theme, "Speak, Lord, I'm Listening," will bring to-gether young Christians "who know that they bear within themselves the power of Christ and are willing to use it."

When my wife and I were married, a friend in Syracuse, New York, where I then lived, offered us his cabin in the north woods for a honeymoon. We certainly appreciated this kindness, for we had very little money for our honeymoon. We drove up there right after the wedding. On the way we stopped in Utica and bought a newspaper. In it was a big black head line telling of the escape of an insane murderer from the State Hospital. It stated he had been reported at large in the area toward which we were headed.

I said nervously to my ride, "Maybe this isn't the place for us to go on our honeymoon."

"Why, you aren't afraid, are you?" she asked, surprised. She had read my writings and listened to my speeches on the overcoming of fear, and now that she had married me I had to show her that I could practice what I preached. "We'll go right on up there," insisted stoutly, but not without some inward perturbation

So we drove on and got there after dark, and if you've ever been in the woods you know how dark it can be:

Our host had said there was a key under the mat: we found it and opened the cottage. I built a fire and Ruth made dinner. My fire was not nearly as good as her dinner. After a delicious meal we sat in the living room before the fire.

"This place has more creaks and noises in it than I ever heard before," I remarked apprehensively. Just then I heard on the front porch what sounded like a step. I looked out the window and thought I could see a face in the darkness. "You don't suppose that murderer could be around here, do you?"

nere, do you?"
"I'm sure not," Ruth said. "Let's just sit here and enjoy this cheery

But the chills were going up and down my back. And I had to prove to my bride that I wasn't a coward, so I said, "Whatever it is on the porch, I'm going to find I walked to the door, acting bravely, but trembling in my shoes, and flung it open. And what do you think? There sat a tiny chipmunk looking at me from his beady little eyes. I said to Ruth, relieved but disgusted, "Nothing but a chipmunk," and I could see the love light in her eyes. She knew she'd married a courageous baseless as this experience proved. I don't mean to say that everything we have to face in life is as insignificant as a chipmunk. But I do think that all of us tend to build up the thing we fear out of all proportion to its real size. A New England physician once wrote me that at least half the illnesses of his patients could be traced to fear and anxiety. Once the patient learns to cut his fears down to size, the illness often vanishes.

Basil King wrote a famous book many years ago. It was simply "Fear" and it leaches the profound principle that if you act boldly, "mighty powers will come to your aid." When I opened that door in that cabin in the woods, I was acting boldly. If the insane man had been standing there, I am sure I would have found a way to cope with the situation, because the very act of boldness calls un from within us the great forces we need to

But the basic antidote to fear is a deep consciousness of the presence of God. "I will fear no evil," the Bible says, "for Thou art with me." Get this truth deeply fixed in your subconscious mind, then boldly stand up to your fears You will find they are not as formidable as you think.

Couple says drug use 'possession by devil'

BOULDER, Colo. - If you're hooked on marijuana, cocaine or LSD, it may not be a mere physical addiction. You could be "possessed by the devil."

One Boulder couple, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Day, are firmly convinced of that and per-form exorcism in their home or at their church, Loving Way Pentecostal

"I believe the Lord wants us to do work in this town," Day said. "The power of Satan is so great around here."

Presbyterians reject new faith declaration

ROANOKE, Va. (AP) -The Presbyterian Church in the U.S. (Southern) has turned down a proposed new declaration of faith in contemporary language after years of work on it.

The defeat came in a narrowly negative vote of 118 to 106 by the Highlands Presbytery here, making impossible the threefourths vote of 45 of 60 regional presbyteries required by the Church constitution for passage.

With the tally now at 23 presbyteries for and 16 against, even if all the remaining presbyteries voted favorably, the total would be only 44.

The proposed Book of Confessions, a focus of keen concern in the 890,000 since work on it began in 1969, includes the new declaration along with the traditional Westminster traditional Confession and nine other historic creeds.

Proponents claimed the new declaration would bring renewal to the Church, while opponents claimed it failed to affirm doctrines in sufficiently plain, unmistakeable terms.

Spokesmen of both sides, bowever, say a new statement of faith is needed, and the effort to produce a satisfactory one will go on. The larger 2.7million-member United Presbyterian Church adopted a contemporary declaration of faith in

Solar energy due 'harness' by L.B. firm

By RALPH HINMAN Jr. Staff Writer

Harnessing the sun for domestic purposes is more-than just a business to engineer-industrialist Kenneth E. Parker, president of one of Long Beach's new industrial firms and a resident since 1967.

His Solarcoa, Inc., designs, develops, produces and markets solar energy systems in and from a headquarters established in January at 2115 E. Spring St. With about 80 per cent of the 12,000 sq. ft. lacility's heating and cooling needs supplied by the sun, natural gas is retained only as a seldom-used backstop for a solar energy collection-storage sys-

Parker — during an interview — displayed a missionary's zeal while talking about the nation's argent need to develop practical alternate energy

REITERATED throughout were these or similar words; "Imagine what it will be like when we run out of gass, a potentially catastrophic situation Parker predicts will occur by 1981.

Naturally enough, Old Sol tops his list of poten-tial substitutes for dwindling supplies of petroleum and natural gas.

Although it's not coming on stream tomorrow, or perhaps even the day after, Parker said he and his people already are researching and developing a self-contained, sun-fired plant capable of generat-ing 1 million watts — 1 megawatt — of electricity. By comparison, Southern California Edison's oilfed Alamitos Bay plant, one of the utility's larger units, was said to generate 1.950 megawatts at capacity, not quite double the output Parker anticipates.

That's for the future.

The present is expressed through the company's trademarked Module system providing hot water, heat or cooled air. The basic unit, $1,189 F.O.B. Long Beach, was designed to provide a family of four with M per cent of the energy it requires at home. Parker

The self-contained entity, it collects solar energy through 32 sq. ft. of glass-and-metal, storing it by heating 52 gallons of water in a tank that is integral

A particularly sophisticated version, a central heating-cooling system now is being installed at a San Bernardino housing redevelopment project.

Eighty per cent is a key number to Parker. His equipment presently will supply that much of the required domestic energy. Conventional gas or electricity is needed to supplement the solar system in an extended cloudy spell.

But, the executive confided, it will be possible to upgrade that to 90 per cent in the immediate future. with the technology necessary for supplying 100 per cent of residential energy needs emerging in the

"Geothermal (superheated water released through wells from pools deep in the earth and ernessed to turbine systems) require specific sites. he said. Among the locales would be the deserts of Southeastern California here geothermal experiments 117

Also ruled out for comparable geographic difficulties was the use of "ocean gradients," widely differing temperatures found in the deeps.

And wind power, while an important potential source, "is not that consistent or plentiful where needed," he said.

REMAINING THEN is solar energy, a source Parker's first company. Space Optics Corp., began to research in depth in 1971:

After outgrowing locations in Century City and Yan Nays, and after being getting a new name. Solargoa, the firm moved to Long Beach in 1975, Initially located at several sites here, corporate headminany located at several sites here, corporate lead-quarters, manufacturing and sales offices were con-softateed in January on Willow, near near its intersection with Cherry Avenue.

THE an annual payroll of $350,000-$400,000.

To Parker, however, that's only the beginning. He talks of 1,000 employes with a $6.1 million payroll in low years, expanding dramatically across the next to years as today's energy crunch presumably wors-

Friday's Quotations

Harnessing the sun for domestic purposes is more than just a business to engineer-industrialist Kenneth E. Parker, president of one of Long Beach's news industrial firms and a resident since 1967.

Solarcoa, Inc., designs, develops, produces and markets solar energy systems in and from a head marters established in January at 2115 E. Spring St. With about 80 per cent of the 12,000 sq. ft. facility's heating and cooling needs supplied by the sun hatural gas is retained only as a seldom-used backstop for a solar energy collection-storage sys-

REITERATED throughout were these or similar words. Imagine what it will be like when we run out of gas: 'a potentially catastrophic situation Purker predicts will occur by 1981.

Naturally enough, Old Sol tops his list of potential substitutes for dwindling supplies of petroleum and natural gas.

Although it's not coming on stream tomorrow, or perhaps even the day after. Parker said he and his people already are researching and developing a self-contained, sun-fired plant capable of generating 1 million watts — 1 megawatt — of electricity.

By comparison, South ern California Edison's oil-fed Alamitos Bay plant, one of the utility's larger units, was said to generate 1.950 megawatts at capacity, not quite double the output Parker antici-

That's for the future.

The present is expressed through the company's frademarked Module system providing hot water, heat or cooled air. The basic unit, $1.189 F.O.B. Long be percent of the energy it requires at home, Parker Beach, was designed to provide a family of four with LARGER MODELS are available, up to and including the capable of serving business and industry. Among the projects currently served by Solarcoa units is a swimmming pool for a multi-family apartment complex in the city of Irvine; domestic hot water for a Costa Mesa condominium; numerous single-family installations in Long Beach and elsewhere; and a joint effort in Torrance with the gas company in a computerized hot water system.

A particularly sophisticated version, a central heating-cooling system now is being installed at a San-Bernardino housing redevelopment project.

Eighty per cent is a key number to Parker. His equipment presently will supply that much of the required domestic energy. Conventional gas or electricity is needed to supplement the solar system in an extended cloudy spell.

But, the executive confided, it will be possible to upgrade that to 90 per cent in the immediate future, with the technology necessary for supplying 100 per cent of residential energy needs emerging in the

Also ruled out for comparable geographic difficulties was the use of "ocean gradients," widely differing temperatures found in the deeps.

Can President fulfill promise to slice business regulations?

Despite President Carter's hearthside pledge lo "cut down" the number of federal regulations. Americans may find that the fires of reform often burn only briefly and are difficult to rekindle, reports Industry Week

Even if the President continues to give top priority to deregulation, he faces a mountain that contaces a mountain that continues to grow. Proposed, revised, and codified federal rules and standards last year consumed 57,027 pages of the "Federal Register." the official chronicle of regulations. In just the first month of 1977, they filled 5.996 pages. 5.996 pages

DIRECT FEDERAL outlays for regulating business are expected to reach $3.5 billion in fiscal 1977, the federal budget year ending on Sept. 30. That would be a 21 percent increase from the $2.9 bil-lion in fiscal 1976, one source tells Industry Wook

By the end of fiscal 1978, federal regulatory expenditures are expected to approach $3.8 billion.

Yet government spending only scratches the surface of the regulatory economic burden, says the magazine.
Business and individual citizens expend $40 billion a year filling out and filing the forms that Washington requires, estimates the Commission on Federal Paperwork.

AS EVIDENCE that deregulation intentions often fall short of results, one need look back no farther than the Ford Administration for proof, says Industry Week,

Mr. Ford's two years of reform attempts produced only one clear success the repeal of two federal laws which permitted states to enact 'fair trade' product-pricing statutes.

Railroads did gain some rate flexibility, but the adjustment actually was regulation, not significantly less regulation. A 1975 Ford request that government agencies trim their paperwork requirements by 10 percent never got a final auditing. An interim evaluation showed spotty compliance. A Ford that revoke the Congressional operating authority for agencies not specifically renewed by the House and Senate. A broad-based plan covers almost all federal activities—payment of interest on the national spotty compliance. A Ford administration bill providing for Congressional regulatory reviews every year through 1980 went no-

ONE MAJOR roadblock to reform: Doubt among some government veter-ans that anyone actually knows the full extent of regulatory activity.

Nevertheless, reports the magazine, the Senate does have two reform bills pending. They are so-called "sunset" measures debt and Social Security are exempted—and envisions a five-year review cycle. A more narrowly fo-cused bill—one regulatory category would be exam-ined each year for four years starting in 1979 mandates an eight-year renewal cycle.

Can President fulfill promise to slice business regulations?

Despite President Carter's hearthside pledge to 'cut down" the number of federal regulations, Americans may find that the fires of reform often burn only briefly and are difficult to rekindle, reports Industry Week

Even if the President continues to give top priority to deregulation, he faces a mountain that continues to grow. Proposed, revised, and codified federal rules and standards last year consumed 57,027 pages of the "Federal Register," the official chronicle of regulations. In just the first month of 1977, they filled

DIRECT FEDERAL outlays for regulating business are expected to reach $3.5 billion in fiscal 1977, the federal budget year ending on Sept. 30. That would be a 21 percent increase from the $2.9 billion in fiscal 1976, one source tells Industry Week.

By the end of fiscal 1978, federal regulatory expenditures are expected to approach $3.8 billion.

Yet government spend ing only scratches the surface of the regulatory economic burden, says the magazine.
Business and individual

citizens expend $40 billion a year filling out and filing the forms that Washington requires, estimates the Commission on Federal Paperwork

AS EVIDENCE that deregulation intentions often fall short of results, one need look back no farther than the Ford Administration for proof, says Industry Week. Mr. Ford's two years of reform attempts produced only one clear success: the repeal of two federal laws which permitted states to enact "fair trade" product-pricing product-pricing statutes.

Nevertheless, reports the magazine, the Senate does have two reform bills pending. They are so-called "sunset" measures that revoke the Congressional operating authority for agencies not specifically renewed by the House and Senate.

A broad-based plan covers almost all federal activities-payment interest on the national

By JAY SHARBUTT

HOLLYWOOD (#) - Near the swimming pool at the big hotel on the Universal Studios lot, a small blue hat moved briskly to a table. Beneath the hat was Charlie Callas of Brooklyn.

He's the short, wiry, rubber-faced guy who plays Malcolm, the aide-de-con to Robert Wagner and Eddie Albert in "Switch," the CBS private eye show in which various film-flams are used to fight crime.

That work had its hazards, he said, recalling a dark moment in his life when he heard Tommy Dor-

It'll be a disaster. Perhaps the end of the Olympic movement. Those aren't casually chosen words. You're only fooling yourself if you think the Soviets will play fair, or even make an attempt, once they have the world's top athletes assembled in Moscow.

The Soviets are the most accomplished, blatant cheaters in the history of sport. In the Soviet Union, sportsmanship means gamesmanship, which means winning at all cost.

How important was forward. Kermit Washington to the Lakers?

They found out painfully Friday night as the lowly Atlanta Hawks snapped their 21-game Forum win-ning streak with a 111-101 victory. The difference was in the re-bounding, where Washington came close to giving the Lakers parity all season against teams taller and Atlanta is not the top rebound-ing team in the National Basketball Association, or even close to the best, but the Hawks dominated the backboards 53-35 and turned the advantage into a surprising win.

Only three teams in the NBA have worse records than the young Hawks, who are last in the Central Division with a 23-35 record.

"Our rebounding was atro-cious," said Laker coach Jerry West, "but not even Washington West, "but not even Washington would have won for us tonight. We didn't even work hard and that's what bothers me."

The Lakers had been idle for seven days and West said that was a factor in his team's lethargy. But there was no hiding the huge disparity on the backboards.

West tried seldom-used Mary Roberts for 24 minutes and although he played well, he provided only two rebounds. If you throw in Tom Abernethy, the other forward, the Lakers collected only six re-bounds in 93 minutes.

Reserve guard Claude Terry, a Stanford man who found new life with the Hawks, sparked the victory by scoring 13 of his 18 points in the fourth period.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar had a poor second half which hurt the Lakers. He hit only two of 11 from the field after a perfect 8-for-8 first

The Lakers led at intermission, 54-51.

Lucius Allen played well, scoring 24 points, and Abernethy was steady as usual. He hit all five of his field goal tries.

The Hawks were thrilled with the victory, shouting like college kids in the locker room after the game.

"We have a young, excitable team," said coach Hubie Brown.
"Beating the Lakers at home if a big thrill for us." Asked about the affect Washington might have had on the out-come. Brown said he didn't want to hear about injuries.

"No team has been hurt more by injuries than us," he said. "We haven't had Geoff Petrie all year. we lost Steve Hawes for half the season and Lou Hudson has missed the last 10 games."

Atlanta won three of its five Allanta won three of its five games on this West Cuast road trip. "We're a young team that's going to get better." he said. "We converted 11 of 17 second shots offensive rebounds) and we kept our poise. With so much youth, we don't always do that."

The Lakers, who lost a chance to have the best record in the NBA, leave today on a three-game road that starts with a nationally telewised game Sunday against the Washington Bullets. "We'll keep experimenting and hope we find a winning combina-tion," said West. "Even without Kermit, I know we can play much better than we did tonight." -Doug ives

Poly again rallied in the last 90 seconds and should have been no worse off than even. Gregory and Bachman each missing two layins off offensive re-bounds in the last 10 seconds.

Millikan played most of the second half in a 2-3 zone. Poly didn't lack for inside shots but was only 6 of 16 and 5 of 18 from the field in the third and fourth periods.

Conversely, Millikan was again over 50 per cent (25 of 49) with White, S. Johnson and Doug Marty each scoring 12 points. Johnson at 6-5 had his seeond big game against the Hares, sinking most of his half-dozen baskets over the 6-9 M. Johnson or 6-8 Gregory.

Gregory had 22 points to lead Poly, "which didn't lack for opportunities to win." said coach Ron Palmer. "Over-all, 1 thought it was an excellent game."

The second 3,500-plus crowd to watch the teams play this season would certainly agree.

Miss Navratilova look ing slim and appearing light on her feet, blasted out a 6-3, 6-4, decision over JoAnn Russell of Naples, Fla., in a quarterfinal match.

Miss Evert, ranked No. I in the world, had even less trouble downing Kerry Reid of Australia, 6-1, 6-1. The 22-year-old from Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., admitted after the match that she hasn't been extended yet this week.

The victory set up a meeting between Miss Evert and Rosie Casals, of Sausalito, whose slashing game has earned her the role of darling of the tour-nament so far. Miss Casals survived a tough match against 14-year-old Tracy Austin of Rolling Hills, and then upset third seeded Virginia Wade to gain the semifinals.

In a later quarterfinal match, Margaret Court of Australia defeated Terry Holladay of La Jolla, 6-4.

49ers chase PCAA title tie tonight

By JIM McCORMACK Staff Writer

Thirty minutes after Long Beach State had beaten San Diego State, 75-73, Thursday night, referee Keith Pilger approached 49er assistant coach Dana Pagett and asked him a question.

"He wanted to know if we practiced shooting free throws," recalls Pagett.

It was a valid question although technically not accurate. Of course, the 49ers shoot free throws daily in practice and, now, with alarming frequency, in games.

Their problem isn't in shooting free throws, it is in making them.

They've been a factor in back-to-back last-second wins over Pacific and San Diego State and they're certain to be a factor tonight when the 49ers seek to clinch at least a tie for their eighth con-secutive Pacific Coast Athletic Association title.

Cal State Fullerton, which shared the 1976 crown with the Hers, will provide the opposition in the contest, scheduled to begin at 7:30 in the Titan gym.

The PCAA conflict will be broadcast on KFOX-AM (1280) and KKOP-FM (93.5).

To get that title tie tonight, the 49ers will have to play well enough that the game won't be decided at the foul line.
Against Pacific, last Saturday.

Long Beach was 7 of 21 from the free throw line, but could have shot 24 charity tosses if it had the first try on three one-and-ones.

The 49ers were 11 of 26 against San Diego, but had a potential of 33 attempts. They missed the first shot in seven one-and-one situa-

That weakness—the 49ers are shooting 52 per cent from the foul line in PCAA—has become so apparent that conference coaches are incorporating it into game tac-

San Diego State coach Tim Vezic was so influenced by it that he had his players fouling 49ers with four minutes to play in a game the Aztecs trailed by only two

The ploy would have worked. too, if the 49ers hadn't been able to rebound several of those misses.

Tonight's game, if past meetings are any indication, should go right to the wire. Fullerton beat Long Beach, 55-54, in the Titan gym last year before the 49ers pre-vailed, 68-66, in triple overtime in the Long Beach Arena.

The 49ers won the first meeting this year. 74-67, a score that is deceiving since the game was tied at 65 with 45 seconds to play.

Free throws aren't the only problem facing 49er coach Dwight

Fullerton troublesome foe

49ers chase PCAA title tie tonight

By JIM McCORMACK Staff Writer

Thirty minutes after Long Beach State had beaten San Diego State, 75-73, Thursday night, referee Keith Pilger approached 49er assistant coach Dana Pagett and asked him a question.

"He wanted to know if we practiced shooting free throws," recalls Pagett.

It was a valid question although technically not accurate. Of course, the 49ers shoot free throws daily in practice and, now, with alarming frequency, in games.

Their problem isn't in shooting free throws, it is in making them.
They've been a factor in back-to-back last-second wins over Pacific and San Diego State and they're certain to be a factor tonight when the 49ers seek to clinch at least a tie for their eighth consecutive Pacific Coast Athletic Association title.

PCAA standings

Cal State Fullerton, which shared the 1976 crown with the 49ers, will provide the opposition in the contest, scheduled to begin at 7:30 in the Titan gym.

The PCAA conflict will be broadcast on KFOX-AM (1280) and KKOP-FM (93.5).

To get that title tie tonight, the 49ers will have to play well enough that the game won't be decided at the foul line.

Against Pacific, last Saturday, Long Beach was 7 of 21 from the free throw line, but could have shot 24 charity tosses if it had the first try on three one-and-ones.

The 49ers were 11 of 26 against San Diego, but had a potential of 33 attempts. They missed the first shot in seven one-and-one situa-

That weakness-the 49ers are shooting 52 per cent from the foul line in PCAA—has become so apparent that conference coaches are incorporating it into game tac-

San Diego State coach Tim Vezie was so influenced by it that he had his players fouling 49ers with four minutes to play in a game the Aztees trailed by only two

The ploy would have worked, too, if the 49ers hadn't been able to rebound several of those misses.

Tonight's game, if past meetings are any indication, should go right to the wire. Fullerton beat Long Beach, 55-54, in the Titan gym last year before the 49ers pre-vailed, 68-66, in triple overtime in the Long Beach Arena.

The 49ers won the first meeting this year, 74-67, a score that is deceiving since the game was tied at 65 with 45 seconds to play.

Free throws aren't the only problem facing 49er coach Dwight

His tallest player, Mark Steff, and one of his smallest, Donnie Martin, won't be available. Martin dislocated the index finger on his right hand in practice Wednesday and will be sidelined indefinitely.

His loss caused quite a bind in San Diego. Since the 49ers were on the road when he was injured, he couldn't be replaced on the travel roster and reserve Danny Marques had been left home. Dale Dillon responded with an impressive 37minute performance.

The 49ers will have Marques, a talented senior playmaker, available to spell Dillon tonight. Stell, a 6-10 center who has played very little in league, is temporarily ineligible for playing in a recreation league game last Sunday. LBSU officials have contacted the NCAA on the matter and hope to have Steff reinstated by next week.

NCAA rules forbid athletes from playing in organized leagues of any kind while the players are in college.

Kings battle Bruins on neutral Forum ice

These have been trying times for the Kings . . . and their fans.

Only three teams in the National Hockey League have a worse home record than coach Bob Pulford's skaters, who will try to climb over the .500 mark when they engage the Boston Bruins on the Forum ice at 8:05.

The Kings, who compiled 22-13-5 and 22-7-11 records at home the last two years, risk a 12-12-5 mark tonight against Boston, which currently is tied for the Adams Division lead with Buffalo. The Kings have beaten the Bruins only once in their last six encounters (1-5-0) and life-SCHMAUTZ time have won only 12 times in 51 tries (12-36-3). However, the Bruins have been struggling of late, too. They are only 4-5-2 in their last 11 starts and snapped a fivegame winless string Wednesday in Vancouver, 7-3

Jean Ratelle has a five game scoring streak (5-6-11) while Bobby Schmautz has registered 3 goals and 6 assists for 9 points in his last five games.

Wayne Cashman returned Wednesday after missing 15 games with a broken left thumb sustained in a fight with the Kings' Neil Komadoski.

One of the few bright spots for the upand-down Kings has been the play of Marcel Dionne and Butch Goring.

Dionne has 15 goals and 14 assists in his last 15 games and all the club's offensive records seem certain to fall in the next few weeks.

Marcel has 36 goals and 49 assists for 86 points, second to Guy Lafleur's 91. Last year Dionne set L.A. records with 40 goals, 54 assists (tying Whitey Widing) and 94 points.

Dating back to the start of the 1974-75 season, Goring has scored 83 goals, 113 assists for 196 points in the last 196 games-a point a game for over 21/2 sea-

KINGS NOTES: Dissatisfied with the play of aging veterans Frank St. Marseille and Bob Berry, the Kings called up left winger Steve Clippingdale Friday from their Ft. Worth (CHL) farm club. More roster changes are expected as the Kings cling to third place in the Norris Division. Clippingdale leads the CHL in power play goals (10) and is fifth in goal scoring with 21. Johany Bucyk did not accompany the Bruins on their five-game trip. He's missing his 1th successive game due to a lower back sprain and disc ailment. If Gerry Cheevers starts in goal for Boston, it will mark his 300th NHL regular-season game. Peter McNab leads Boston scorers with 70 points—fourth best figure in the league. The Kings close out their six-game home stand Thuesday and Thursday against St. Louis and Vancouver. Then it's off for a rugged fivegame safari in six nights.

Vanier's 62 falls shy

Byman's 64 wins at S.

SAN DIEGO-Bob Byman of Raleigh, N.C., made six birdie putts from two to 25 feet on the Rancho Penasquitos course Friday for a six-under-par 64 and a four-stroke victory in the $25,000 American Golf Tour tournament.

Byman, 1972 U.S. Junior champion and a pro for five months, finished at 193, 17 under par for three rounds of the hilly, 5,756-yard course.

He won $5,000, pushing his total to $8,400 in three of the five AGT winter events in which he has competed.

Gary Vanier, former Stanford player from Oakland, wound up second with a closing 29-33-62 that included a three-foot eagle putt on the 462-yard eighth green and six birds. He won $3,000 and remains leading AGT money winner with $9,710 in five tournaments.

OTHER LEADERS and their money winnings: 198 ($2,000) - Bill Lytle, 65-64-69, 199 ($1,066 each) Cecil Ferguson, 63-69-67; Tony Campregher, 68-66-65; Paul Wise, 68-66-68; Bill Feil, 68-68-66; Charles Gibson, 66-67-67, 201 ($650) — Greg Pitzer, 64-70-67, 202 ($550 each) — Gary Jacobson, 67-65-70; Jim Petralia, 67-71-64; Bill

Sanderson returns to NHL with Vancouver

VANCOUVER (AP)-General manager Phil Maloney of the Vancouver Canucks announced the acquisition Friday of veteran center Derek Sanderson from the St. Louis Blues' Kansas City farm club.

Sanderson, 30, was expected to be in the Canucks' lineup for their National Hockey League game Saturday night against the Atlanta Flames.

I made a special trip into Kansas City last Sunday and watched him play against Tulsa," Maloney said. "I was impressed with the way he handled himself on the

'He's acknowledged to be one of the better faceoff men in the game, he can kill penalties and he handles the puck well. We hope he hasn't forgotten how to do these things.

things happen near the end."
It was no different Friday.
Leading 71-70 with 52 seconds to play, Manuel Calvin blew a oneand-one free throw situation and Long Beach controlled the rebound.

While the Vikings were bringing the ball up court, seeking a rare lead, guard Danny Chislock was called for an offensive foul away from the ball.

The Renegades got two more free throws for a 73-70 bulge with six seconds to go and then backed off to allow Hughes a court-length drive for a game-ending basket.

Hughes scored 16 points before intermission, hitting live of eight field goals and all six free throws.

But Long Beach never really recovered from a 22-12 deficit mid-way through the first half. At that point Fraser replaced Kenny Scott and Chislock with Gary Mulder and Don Harper, who helped slice the margin to 39-36 at the break Chislock gave the losers their first lead (44-43) 4:32 into the second half and 5½ minutes later Lester Hogan's field goal hiked the advantage to three points. NEW YORK (AP)—Apprentice jockey Steve Cau-then, trainer Frank (Pancho) Martin and owner Sigmund Sommer combined for a triple Friday at Aqueduct, including the $25,000 feature in which Treacle Tart rallied under severe pressure to win by a half length over Sylvan's Girl, 122.

The other two winners for the trio were Gimme Five, $4.60, in the first, and Nite Port, $5.60, in the third. Cauthen now has ridden 112 winners, 105 in New York,

Morgan, Reds still at odds

No contract, no spring training. That's what Cincin-

"It scares me that I may not be playing in Cincinnati. But I have an alternative now," says Morgan, who may be following former teammate Don Gullett into the free agent market.

Morgan, only the second National League player to win successive Most Valuable Player awards, is frustrated over prolonged salary negotiations with the Reds' front office and Morgan's attorney, Tom Reich, who met with club officials Thursday and Friday, agreed that "the clock is winding down. Time is very critical if a deal is going to be reached to keep him in Cincinnati."

THE Cleveland Barons, who haven't been paid for sometime, say they want to boycott Cleveland—not a bad idea, actually—but after deciding to go ahead and play Friday night's NHL game with Colorado and Sunday's game with Pittsburgh, the players hit upon an idea.

If by noon Tuesday this situation has not been rectified, unless we are paid in full or Mr. Greenberg (Stewart Greenberg, who owns the rink) steps in, every team in the league will back our team in our decision not to continue playing," said player rep Bob Stewart.

tour's long knockers. "You just can't charge anything or they will run four or five feet long.' That's what happened to Massengale. He birdied the first hole and thought, "Here we go again."

But he three-putted the second when he charged his birdie try and that knocked all the boldness out of him.

"I just got scared," Rik admitted. "I left a lot of birdie putts short today. But what hurt me was my chipping. Four times I was just off the green and bogeyed every time. My chipping was awful."

Massengale made six bogeys, more than he had in 90 holes last week at the Bob Hope Desert Clas-"It's kind of a relief not to be $300,000 in his first two years on the tour before a gall bladder operation slowed him down, could have had the undisputed lead but shockingly three-putted the 17th hole from 21/2 feet.

"The greens are great but they're treacherous," said Wad-kins.

"I've never been a real good short putter but that was awful." His first putt lipped out and rolled two feet below the hole. That one lipped out, too.

Wadkins played the front nine flawlessly in 4-under 31, holing putts of 4, 6, 15 and 4 feet. He matched the card on the next five holes before taking bogeys on the 15th and 17th.

"This course really taxes you," said Wadkins. "If you don't have the touch, you get gun-shy on your putts. I hit the ball absolutely great from tee to green."

But he was lucky, too. He had to save 6 and 8-foot putts for par on the 15th and 16th holes and escaped a bogey on 18 when his approach to the green hit a lady's purse and stayed on the fringe.

"It was heading for the hot dog stand," said Stadler, a former U.S. Amateur champion who is begin-ning to live up to his potential in his sophomore season.

It was no different Friday.

Leading 71-70 with 52 seconds to play, Manuel Calvin blew a oneand-one free throw situation and Long Beach controlled the rebound. While the Vikings were bringing the ball up court, seeking a rare lead, guard Danny Chislock was called for an offensive foul away from the ball. The Renegades got two more free throws for a 73-70 bulge with six seconds to go and then backed off to allow Hughes a court-length drive for a game-ending basket. Hughes scored 16 points before intermission, hitting five of eight field goals and all six free throws. But Long Beach never really recovered from a 22-12 deficit mid-way through the first half.

At that point Fraser replaced

Kenny Scott and Chislock with Gary Mulder and Don Harper, who helped slice the margin to 39-36 at the break. Chislock gave the losers their first lead (44-43) 4:32 into the second half and 51/2 minutes later Lester Hogan's field goal hiked the advantage to three points.

Vince Defusco sank a 15-foot jumper at the buzzer to give visit-ing Bellflower a 49-48 win over Mayfair in the Suburban League (inale Friday night.

Beliflower, the league cham-pion with a 13-1 record, had some poor Mayfair free throw shooting to thank for the win.

With the Monsoons leading by three points with 1:30 remaining, Mayfair proceeded to miss front ends on three one and one free throw opportunities.

The final miss came with five seconds to go and Mayfair ahead by one point. Bellflower had no time outs remaining, so Defusco had to dribble the length of the floor after rebounding the missed free throw and toss up his finalsecond shot.

Mayfair, which finished third at 9-5, had the game's top scorer in Tom Kuyper who tallied 22 points on 10-of-12 floor attempts.

Second-place Paramount (11-3) used the scoring efforts of 12 players in its 80-58 win over visiting Glenn.

John Gonzales led the balanced Pirate attack with 17 points. Santas Salas paced the Eagles with 18.

The league's fourth-place team, Artesia (8-6), just got past visiting Excelsior, 66-60, behind the shooting of guard Terry Goddard, who scored 32 points. Goddard hit 11 of 15 field goal attempts and 10 of 13 free throw chances. Center Hershel McMahon led the Pilots with 25 points and 20 rebounds. Norwalk picked up its second win in league with a 58-55 verdict over host Neff.

Brian Hensley's 29 points pro-vided most of the Lancers' offense, while junior center Jeff Young turned in another strong perform-ance for the Trojans with 20 points.

By ED COLE Staff Writer

Downey's Toby Simioli sank a basket from 35 feet out at the buzzer to break a deadlock and help the Vikings defeat Warren 87-85 Friday night at Cerritos College for its first league basketball championship ever.

The last second San Gabriel Valley win was a fitting end to a wild second half which saw the lead change hands 16 times and the score tied 10 times.

Simioli was incredible throughout the game, scoring 32 points and hitting on 13 of 21 attempts from the floor and 6 out of 6 from the free throw line. But it was his last second shot from way outside that sent the crowd into pandemonium.

There was just more than a minute remaining when Downey

Downey gains first crown with victory over Warren

By ED COLE Staff Writer

Downey's Toby Simioli sank a basket from 35 feet out at the buzzer to break a deadlock and help the Vikings defeat Warren 87-85 Friday night at Cerritos College for its first league basketball championship ever.

The last second San Gabriel Valley win was a fitting end to a wild second half which saw the lead change hands 16 times and the score tied 10 times.

Simioli was incredible throughout the game, scoring 32 points and hitting on 13 of 21 attempts from the floor and 6 out of 6 from the free throw line. But it was his last second shot from way outside that sent the crowd into pandemonium. There was just more than a minute remaining when Downey took a two-point lead after Simioli had a steal and drove the basket

But Warren's Jerry McCarthy persistently recovered the rebound of a shot missed by his teammate Jim Uranga, tried to score, missed, recovered his own rebound and finally made the basket to tie the score. That set the scene for Simioli.

His chance came when McCarthy couldn't handle a high pass and the ball sailed out of bounds. Downey inbounded the ball with 10 seconds remaining and got it to Simioli who dropped the ball straight through the hoop.

The early part of the game didn't go well for Downey as a sticky full court press by Warren forced the Vikings into mistakes.

A.J. Champions king

Yarborough winner after Foyt 'love tap'

DAYTONA BEACH, Fia. (AP)—Cale Yarborough kept control despite a constant pounding by a brakeless A.J. Foyt and won the 100-mile finale of the International Race of Champions series Friday, but Foyt took the over-all title for the second year in a row.
Foyt hounded Yarborough for several laps up to the finish, ramming the nose of his Camaro into the rear of Yarborough's machine at over 170 mph.

On the last lap, Foyt tried to make a move going into the third turn, after giving Yarborough one last unsettling "love tap." But Yarborough anticipated Foyt's move perfectly and cut him off. They crossed the finish line with Yarborough a car length in front.

Bobby Unser was another car length behind, followed closely by Richard Petty, Johnny Rutherford, David Pearson and Al Holbert.

Buddy Baker did not finish. Al Unser was the victim of the race's only crash. The race average was 165.746 mph. There were 34 lead changes among six drivers.

Yarborough finished three points behind Foyt in the over-all standings with Bobby Unser another point back in third.

How does your hydrangea grow?

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Hydrangea, a deciduous fleafless in winter) shrub, is in the large Saxifragaceae family comprising five tribes. Within the hydrangea tribe there are 13 genus — three of them are commonly known.

Hydrangea hortensis macrophylia is the garden variety with showy terminal clusters of red, pink, salmon rose, and white blos-soms with large leaves. The shrubs easily grow five to eight feet in diameter if they aren't pruned back after they finish blooming, which is about August or September. Though listed as shade loving plants they grow quite well in full sun, except in desert for stressing this for hydrangea, M. Washington geranium, and Bearded Iris is to give plants a timed feeding in advance of blooming period. The blossoms will last longer if the gardener waters the plants thoroughly as they thirst.

Yarborough winner after Foyt 'love tap'

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Cale Yarborough kept control despite a con-stant pounding by a brakeless A.J. Foyt and won the 100-mile finale of the International Race of Champions series Friday, but Foyt took the over-all title for the second year in a row.

Foyt hounded Yarborough for several laps up to the finish, ramming the nose of his Camaro into the rear of Yarborough's machine at over 170 mph.

On the last lap, Foyt tried to make a move going into the third turn, after giving Yarborough one last unsettling "love tap." But Yarborough anticipated Foyt's move perfectly and cut him off. They crossed the finish line with Yarborough a car length in front.

Bobby Unser was another car length behind, followed closely by Richard Petty, Johnny Rutherford, David Pearson and Al Holbert.

Buddy Baker did not finish. Al Unser was the victim of the race's only crash. The race average was 165.746 mph. There were 34 lead changes among six drivers.

Yarborough finished three points behind Foyt in the over-all standings with Bobby Unser another point back in third.

Spokesmen for the California Peace Officers Association and California District Attorneys Associ-ation said in interviews this week that they would take no position on the nomination, although some law enforcement officers, such as Los An-geles Police Chief Ed Davis, oppose it.

Thursday, 26 Republican state legislators signed a letter to Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger, who may cast a decisive vote on the comination, urging him to reject Ms. Bird be cause of her lack of judicial experience and her stands on issues like farm

One reason law enforcement groups aren't opposing the nomination, said CPOA spokesman Rod Blonien, is that they got one of their main objectives when Brown nomi-nated Wiley Manuel, a former top aide to Younger, for another court opening.

Ms. Bird, state agriculture and services secretary, is the first woman ever nominated to the court, and Manuel, an Alameda County Superior Court judge, is the first black.

"We were pretty happy with Wiley Manuel's ap-pointment," particularly in contrast to other minorities who were being considered, Blonien said.

Blonien said Ms. Bird is "not our favorite" nomi-nee, "but I think she's got some good things to offer.

'She's not so ingratiated with the judicial fraternity that she won't be able to make needed changes in court proce-dures and streamline continuances," he said.

Action Committee. Kubo called Ms. Bird "one of the governor's cronies" and said farmers blame her for pro-labor provisions in the state's farm labor law. Kubo's criticism con-trasts with comments by Fred Heringer, president of the California Farm Bureau Federation, who said Ms. Bird "understands the problems of California" and "has the intelligence and instincts to be an out-standing justice."

SACRAMENTO (AP) -Major law-enforcement groups say they will not light Gov. Brown's nomination of Rose Bird to be chief justice of the State Supreme Court.

Spokesmen for the Cali-fornia Peace Officers Association and California District Attorneys Associ-ation said in interviews this week that they would take no position on the nomination, although some law enforcement officers, such as Los An-geles Police Chief Ed Davis, oppose it.

Thursday, 26 Republican state legislators signed a letter to Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger, who may cast a decisive vote on the nomination, urging him to reject Ms. Bird because of her lack of judicial experience and her stands on issues like farm YOUNGER is one of three members of the Commission on Judicial Appointments, which will hold a public hearing March 7 on the nomination.

One reason law enforcement groups aren't opposing the nomination, said CPOA spokesman Rod Blonien, is that they got one of their main objectives when Brown nominated Wiley Manuel, a for-mer top aide to Younger, for another court opening.

Ms. Bird, state agriculture and services secretary, is the first woman ever nominated to the court, and Manuel, an Alameda County Superior Court judge, is the first

"We were pretty happy with Wiley Manuel's ap-pointment," particularly pointment," particularly in contrast to other minor-tties who were being con-sidered, Blonien said.

IN PARTICULAR, he said, the CPOA lobbled against selection of Bernard Jefferson, a black appeals court judge who has written several decisions unpopular with po-

"We looked into some decisions he had rendered and they scared us to death," Blonien said. "We told them (the administration) of the decisions."

One of those decisions now on appeal to the State Supreme Court, said po-lice should have identified themselves before entering a home to arrest a Blonien said Ms. Bird is "not our favorite" nomi-nee, "but I think she's got some good things to offer.

"She's not so ingratiated with the judicial fraternity that she won't be able to make needed changes in court procedures and streamline con-tinuances," he said.

But he said he thinks her confirmation "depends on how much heat is put on Evelle Younger by Pete Wilson and the Republicans in the Legislature" who oppose the nomination. Wilson, mayor of San Diego, and Davis are likely rivals to Younger for the GOP nomination for governor next year. Younger has expressed differences with some of Ms. Bird's views but says he'll judge her on her legal qualifications alone. MORE opposition to Ms. Bird was voiced Friday by one of the administration's chief antagonists on farm labor, Harry Kubo, chairman of the Agricultural Action Committee.

Kubo called Ms. Bird "one of the governor's cronies" and said farmers blame her for pro-labor provisions in the state's farm labor law. Kubo's criticism con-trasts with comments by Fred Heringer, president of the California Farm Bureau Federation, who said Ms. Bird "understands the problems of California" and "has the intelligence and instincts to be an outstanding justice."
